Jamerson, Nelson Mann, Jesse Osborne, Pete Doss, Doug Seamster, and Mrs. Kenneth Jamerson.

Car Wash

The Beta Club of Appomattox High School will sponsor a car wash at Eddie Gulli's City Service, Friday, Oct. 11.

Old Club Appo. Makes Way For New Station

A well known landmark fell last Monday night in the name of progress. It was the old Club Appo, a famous dance spot at Appomattox during the thirties.

The structure was set on fire about 7 o'clock last Monday evening to clear the spot for a new building — a service station.

Located at the west end of Appomattox in a triangle formed by U. S. Rt. 460 and Star Rontes 26 and 24, the dance hall will be remembered by persons from many miles away.

Many well known bands played for dances at the club. One of the more popular ones was the Coy Miller Band. Members of the band were Coy Miller, Charlie Floyd, Keith Raby, Darrin O'Brien and Blue Barnes

Built by J. E. Sears and Co. in 1931, according to D. J. Franklin, who was the first operator, it was a two - story service station with a dance hall upstairs and seven rooms to let.

Within a year, according to Franklin, this Club Appo burned to the ground in January, 1932, when there were about 18 inches of snow on the ground.

Sears rebuilt the club but this time made it a one-story service station with a small dance hall in the rear. Shortly thereafter, the dance hall was found to be too small to accommodate the patrons, so a wing was added onto it. This wing was built by Bill Alvis of Spout Spring, according to Franklin.

The following year, it became necessary to add another wing to the dance hall. This was built by Ottis Davidson. Whitney Godsey, Iverson Smith and Luther Franklin, employees of the Sears' Construction Co., and others.

This new club enjoyed great popularity through the thirties, then with the advent of war in Europe and later with us its popularity dimmed. It was sold about 1947 to C. Lewis McDearmon who owned it until recently when it was bought by Sanford Oil Co. of New Jersey, who had it burned Monday night to make room for a new two-bay service station which they will build on the spot.

E. L. Muller Construction Co., Highland Springs, has the contract for the new building, and according to Marvin J. Hesse, who will be the new operator, it is to be completed within 120 days.

The new station is expected to be built of structural aluminum, prefabricated, and have an enamel porcelain front, and is to be called the West End Esso Station the same name as the one now operated by House across U. S. Rt. 460, but which will be torn down to make room for the second lane of the dual highway.

TV Star Visits Appomattox

Stu Erwin, featured player in the current TV series Biggest Show on Earth, made a surprise visit to Appomattox Court House National Historical Park Sunday. Accompanied by his wife, actress June Collyer, Erwin examined exhibits in the Old Tavern, looked over the Old Store, and said of the McLean House, "wouldn't it be nice to have a fine home like this for easy housekeeping?" Civil War Commission chairman W. C. Hubbard, Appomattox vice-mayor and UDC president, Mrs. Calvin Robinson, RAD head, Dr. J. A. Mathews, and publisher Lloyd Vaughan were on hand to greet the visitors, along with Park historian Wescoat Wolfe, and Charles H. Meadows and Duane Schrock of the interpretative staff. Mrs. Robinson center above presented Stu Erwin with minie balls from the War Between the States found near the park; June Collyer was given gifts by the Park personnel, and a number of children and adults collected autographs and talked with the stars as they made the rounds accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Saunders and Warren Uttal, official of WLVA Radio and TV, Lynchburg. Saunders is president of the Lynchburg Shrine.

Circuit Court Opens Jury Returns 4 Bills

Appomattox County Circuit Court convening Tuesday morning for the fall term under Judge Joel W. Flood impaneled a seven member grand jury to consider five bills of indictment. Four true bills were returned. They incluste the following:

Elzies B. Wright, Negro, who lives five miles south of Appomattox, charged with felonious assault on Charlie Scruggs, Spout Spring Negro, on July 19, last.

Fitz Tyree of Nelson County, charged with felonious assault on Hulet H. Stevens of the Bent Creek community on Aug. 2, last.

Adolphus Edward Cox, Jr., Negro, of Six Mile Bridge, Campbell County, charged with maliciously cutting Claude Lewis, Negro, of Oakville, last Aug. 30.

And Claude Lewis, charged with malicious assult on Adolphus Edward Cox, Jr. on the same date.

Appomattox County Commonwealth's Attorney George Abbitt Jr. said the cases in which true bills were returned would be set for trial later.

Judge Flood appointed Harry G. Lawson, Appomattox attorney to defend Adolphus Edward Cox, Jr., when his case is called for trial. Cox informed the court he was unable to employ an attorney.

The grand jury was composed of William S. Jones, foreman; J. H. O'Brien, D. A. Conner, George F., Langran, R. B. Hudgins, J. W. Conner and E. Irving Bingham.

A $35,000 lawsuit by Morton L. Ferguson's widow against business C. Lewis McDearmon was set down Tuesday for trial in Appomattox County Circuit Court on Jan 30-31 and Feb. 1.

Counsel for the widow, Mrs. Audrey Bergman Ferguson, had a subpoena issued on behalf of the plaintiff for the 57-year-old oil distributor to testify in the trial as an adverse witness.

McDearmon was acquitted after a three-day trial in early January of this year of the pistol slaying of Ferguson, a 34-year-old Lynchburg real estate dealer.

Ferguson was shot to death in the year drive of McDearmon's Appomattox residence the night of Sept. 21, 1962.

McDearmon did not testify at his trial, but defense counsel successfully argued to the trial jury that the older man fired only after being put in fear for his life and that the homicide was justifiable.

Under subpoena issued by the court on behalf of Mrs. Ferguson, McDearmon may be called by the plaintiff as an adverse witness to testify for the first time when the civil suit comes on for trial.

Virginia law provides that a witness so summoned may be examined according to the rules applicable to cross-examination.

The trial dates for Mrs. Ferguson's suit were fixed by Judge Joel W. Flood of Appomattox after consultation with William Rosenberger, Jr. of Lynchburg, representing McDearmon, and John R. Snoddy, Jr., of Dillwyn, Buckingham County, of counsel for Mrs. Ferguson.

Snoddy is associated with Royston Jester III, Lynchburg commonwealth's attorney, in representing Mrs. Ferguson in her civil action against the Appomattox man. Jester was unable to appear Tuesday when the trial dates were set.

Fox Hunters Show, Hunt

Fox Hunters of the James River Fox Hunters Association held a bench show last evening at the American Legion Home and were up before dawn this morning in the first of three fox hunts scheduled for Thursday, Friday, and Saturday morning.

The annual event brings hunters from a wide area with local models and restaurants filling up with hunt enthusiasts. Leonard Anderson, of Appomattox, is president, Roy Roberts, Union Level, vice president, and Vernell Mitchell, of Appomattox, secy.-treas.

King-Queen Contest

P-TA Carnival Halloween Nite

The Appomattox Elementary School P-TA is planning a gala carnival for Halloween Night. A King and Queen plus a Prince and Princess are to be elected from among the boys and girls. They will reign for a year at many school functions. Principal Randall Hill will crown the winners. The carnival will also feature costumed spooks and witches.

Graham Pitsenberger, and Mrs Pitsenberger; plus Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Mathews are in charge of planning. They are asking the aid of P-TA members and the community to make the night a success.

Two Honored For Long Service

Homecoming Service Includes Organ Dedication; Memorials

A large congregation was present for the HomeComing and Decidation service Sunday at Evergreen Methodist Church, Evergreen. An organ solo by Mrs. Dan Harvey preceded the dedication of an organ by the members. Stained glass windows were presented in memory of A. Hugh Baker, John R. Ranson, Lizzie R. Simmons, Helen Paulette Lowe, Mrs. C. S. McDearmon, J. M. and Lillie B. Moses, Royal Moses, Albert N. and Sue J. Harvey, Ida R. Harvey, Ealeanor R. Harvey, R. Edward Carwile, T. R. Dee Richardson, Pall and Carrie Paulette, John L. and Eliza F. Davis, Ben L. and Ellen G. Staples.

The Bible stand was presented in memory of Mrs. Emma Thomas. A church pew was given in memory of Mr. T. R. (Dee) Richardson, and another pew in memory of Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Evans, with the remainder of the pews presented to the church as gifts of the present membership.

The Circle Window was presented by the Methodist Youth Fellowship in honor of those who served in the Armed Forces. Altar furnishings of Cross and Candle Holders were presented as gift of the Methodist Youth Fellowship.

Honored for Service

Mr. Henry Clay Staples was presented a gold, engraved pin and honored for forty years of continuous service as a Methodist layman. The congregation also honored Mrs. Nannie Simms Ferguson for longest term of active service in the church.

Flower Memorials

Flowers were given in memory of B. W. Harvey by Mrs. B. W. Harvey and Mr. and Mrs. Millard Harvey. Also, in honor Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Richardson by their children. Another memorial honored Mrs. Emma Thomas, given by Mrs. C. I. Harvey, J. T. Baker, and J. O. Baker. Flowers were given by Mrs. John P. Ranson and children in memory of Mr. Ranson. The children of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Harvey also placed flowers in the church. Another memorial was to H. Dillard Baker by the family. To the memory of Mrs. Helen Paulette Lowe by Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Paulitte. A memorial to Mr. and Mrs. Phil Paulette by Ora and Phyllis Paulette. Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Staples and family presented flowers in recognition of ministers who have served in the past and present.

A fellowship dinner provided by the membership and friends followed the service.

Vaccinate Now; Knock Out Brucellosis

The goal of livestock producers and veterinarians is the complete eradication of brucellosis as soon as possible and practical. The target for the Nation is total eradication by 1975. Several countries have achieved this goal. A closer look at the possibilities show:

1. The type of vaccine being used today must be refrigerated at ALL times. Vaccine stored at room temperature for just a few days starts to lose its potency, and at the end of 7 to 10 days this product is not longer good.

2. Research now indicates: Calves vaccinated at three to four months of age will develop as much immunity and for as long a period as those vaccinated at seven to eight months.

3. To minimize persistent post-vaccinal titres, vaccination should be limited to the lower age bracket. Some states will not accept cattle from suspect herds.

4. Calves over eight months of age should not be vaccinated. Some problem herds have fallen into this category as a result of the vaccination of calves beyond this age limit.

5. Vaccination is 65 per cent effective.

6. A testing technic to differentiate between brucellosis vaccinal titre and infection in case titre is still not available.

7. In infected herds, calves should be separated from the dams at the earliest possible time and maintained away from the herd.

8. Keep your vaccination certificate! Some states require that all female cattle for interstate be vaccinated. Most states want to know the date of vaccination and the age at which animal was vaccinated. If a vaccinated animal is restagged, this number should be noted on the vaccination certificate.

Through August only 17.6 of eligible have been vaccinated. Don't let your herd be a source of infection.

Prospect Voting Precinct Moved

Upon recommendation of Frank Nat Watkins, commonwealth's attorney of Prince Edward, county supervisors agreed last week to shift the Prospect precinct, now at Wilkinson's Store to the Prospect firehouse.

Tournament Sunday For Sixty Local Golfers

Match play between golfers of the Appomattox Country Club promises excitement this week end as a tournament begins on Sunday for sixty members. Men of the club are divided into three flights, with separate competition among the ladies and among junior boys. Winners from each flight will play other flight winners for at least five rounds of play.

Winners from each flight will receive prizes, said tournament chairman Vernell Mitchell. Six members are collecting the entrance fees and taking care of registration. They are Twyman Coleman, Vernon Bryant, Ned Hancock, Jimmy Redding, Vernell Mitchell and Billy Conner.

Competition begins on Sunday and will continue until November 3. Each pair of golfers may select their own playing time, and each individual "match" competition will be 18 holes.

Thus. from the first flight (ten golfers) will come five winners to meet winners of the other groups for the second round of play. First flight: Ned Hancock vs Howlette Hunter; F. K. Jones vs James Paulette; Skip Wagoner vs Teddy Mitchell; Freddy Mitchell vs Floyd Fleshman; Billy Conner vs Vernell Mitchell.

Second flight: Bobby Phelps vs Watt Abbitt; Dick Bass vs Twyman Coleman; Slow Lawson vs Martin Webb; Bob Leffers vs Vernon Bryant; Harvey Henderson vs Bill Sperry; Ed Crowthorne vs L. E. Thomas; Earl Gowin vs Lloyd Hudson; Bobby Lawson vs Bob Montgomery; Bob Carson vs George Abbitt.

Third flight: Billy Clements vs Chas F. P. Crawley; Robert Trent vs Capt. Blythe; Watt Abbitt, Jr. vs Al Fratrick; J. G. Plunkett vs Jim Redding; Chas T. Moses vs. C. S. Booth; William Dudley vs Elmer Stanley; Bill Jamerson vs Butch Bryant.

Among the Ladies: Merle Lawson vs Ellen Jamerson; Keeney Abbitt vs Harriett Redding; Joyce Morris vs Jo Abbitt; Becky Hudson vs Joyce Morris with Lorraine Montgomery having a "by" on the first round.

Punt-Pass And Kick Contest Set Saturday

The Ford Dealers National Football League Punt Pass and Kick Contest will be held at Appomattox High School Saturday at 1 p.m. Boys 8 through 11 years may win warm-up jackets, helmets, and autographed footballs PLUS a trip to an NFL game where Mom and Dad can go along.

Grinel Motors and local Jaycees cooperate in the annual event. Registration at Grinels Motors, Appomattox, closes Friday. According to the rules, no equipment is needed. Only street shoes or sneakers permitted. Jaycees and Grinels are inviting all boys 8-11 to register, practice — and then join in the afternoon of fun

Lee Conner, above, is shown as he made a winning kick last year in the Jaycee-Grimels Motors Punt - Pass - Kick contest. Lee won a warm-up jacket, and plans to enter again, along with other boys of the community meeting Saturday at 1 p. m. at the Appomattox High School. Boys 8 through 11 are eligible to sign up and compete for footballs, jackets, and helmets in the annual sports event. Lee is son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. (Sam) Conner, of Appomattox.
